A healthy relationship means that both you and your partner are...	An unhealthy relationship starts when even just one of you is...	An abusive relationship starts when just one of you...
Equal You make decisions together and you hold each other to the same standards.	Trying to take control One or both partners sees their desires or decisions as more important. One or both partners is focused only on getting their own way.	Controls the other partner There is no equality in the relationship. What one partner says goes, and if the other partner tries to change this there is increased abuse.
Enjoy Personal Space You both enjoy spending time apart and respect when one of you voices a need for space.	Feeling smothered or forgetting to spend time with others So much time is spent together that one partner is beginning to feel uncomfortable. Or sometimes both partners spend so much time together that they ignore friends, family or other things that used to be important to them.	Isolates the other partner One partner controls where the other one goes, who the other partner sees and talks to. The other partner has no personal space and is often isolated from other people altogether.
Make consensual sexual decisions You talk openly about sexual decisions together. You both consent to sexual activity and can talk about what is ok and what isn't. If you're having sex you talk about possible consequences together, such as pregnancy or STD's. You decide together how to address these things, such as through condoms and other birth control methods.	Pressuring the other into sexual activity or ignoring consequences One partner is trying to convince the other that the relationship should become more sexual. Or both partners are consensually sexually active with each other but aren't addressing the possible consequences.	Forces sexual activity The how, when, and where of sexual activity is determined by only one partner. Threats and violence are used prior to or during sexual activity.
